WALKING AND TALKING WITH THE BUSHWALKING VICTORIA PRESIDENT

Future Walker Project update

Websites for clubs

The principal initiative of our Future Walker Project was the provision of websites to clubs without a website or with a basic or out-of-date site. Due to the excellent deal we negotiated with our developer (ECWeb Development), late last year we were able to extend the offer to all clubs not currently using a Web Content Management System to maintain their website.

To date 23 clubs have accepted the offer and six of these have launched their new website. Of the newly launched websites, four were developed by people with no previous web development or web management experience, and who also developed their website with little or no assistance from the developer or Bushwalking Victoria.

A disappointing aspect of the project is that 15 of clubs invited to participate did not respond to the two invitations sent to them. However, it is not too late for a club to participate, even if previously they have declined our invitation or did not responded.

Sites that have already been launched include the:

- www.sunbushwalk.net.au
- www.caexbushwalkingclub.org.au
- www.echucamoamabushwalkers.org.au
- www.walkingclubvic.org.au
- www.waywardwomenwalkers.org.au

New Bushwalking Victoria website

Work is now underway to design and implement a new Bushwalking Victoria website. The existing site has been in place for five years and its design, navigation and site management elements are overdue for an upgrade. The content of the site is reasonably comprehensive and up-to-date and does not require much updating, but sometimes finding the information you need can be a bit challenging. We will endeavour to address this through an improved menu structure.

One of the glaring deficiencies of the existing site is the lack of information about walking opportunities across the state. We actually have details on approximately 200 walks on the site in the form of the walks booklets from the Federation Walks. However the booklets are quite hard to find and are not presented in a particularly useful format. So this is another aspect we will be concentrating on.

The existing site requires a degree of technical expertise to manage and to update content, and does not provide the functionality required to limit access to specific users or groups of users such as members, Board members, employees etc. The new site will be developed using the Joomla Web Content Management System (the same as used to develop the club websites), which will not only address the shortcomings of the existing arrangements but introduce new functions which will allow activities such as subscribing to news, a blog and/or forum.

It is anticipated that the new website will be launched around mid-year.

Green Walks in the Park Project

We recently received official confirmation from Parks Victoria that they are extending funding for a further 12 months for the Green Walks in the Park Project that we have been running jointly with the Heart Foundation since mid-2011. This is great news for our Project Officer, Erica Gurner, and her dedicated team of volunteers, who can now plan the schedule of walks for the remainder of 2012 and also develop some new walks.

During 2011, which was the development and establishment phase of the project, Erica, her team and the Heart Foundation Project Officer worked really hard to identify suitable walk locations, recruit and train volunteers and organise and conduct a range of walks. Initially we were somewhat disappointed by the number of walkers turning up. But since the start of this year our approach has changed and we now work closely with councils in our target areas to organise and promote walks. As a result recent walks have been much better attended and a recent walk at Point Cook was the best attended so far, which is really good news given the health problems associated with the lack of recreation facilities in the City of Wyndham as highlighted in a feature article in The Age on 15 March.

Walk venues to date have included Brimbank Park, Woodlands Historic Park, Tirhatuan Park, Braeside Park, Maribyrnong Parklands and Geelong. Additional venues being considered for 2012 include Cranbourne Botanic Gardens, Karkarook Park and Shepparton.

For more information or to volunteer as a walk leader or assistant leader, contact Erica on 0487 804 321 or via email at gw@bushwalkingvictoria.org.au

FOR CLUB COMMITTEES—NEW COMPLIANCE SUPPORT WEBSITE

The Office of the Community Sector has launched a Not-For-Profit (NFP) Compliance Support Centre website, a one-stop shop for Victorian NFP organisations to help them comply with all levels of government regulations.

It is the first government web portal of its kind in Australia and is a single entry point for all regulatory information, licences, forms and related support materials, aiming to reduce the regulatory burden for community sector organisations. Over 160 community organisations were consulted in the process, to ensure that it is user-friendly and is tailored to the volunteer-based sector.

There is a page dedicated to sport and recreation organisations that deals with compliance requirements and concerns specific to that sector. These include things like insurance, safety responsibilities related to an increased potential risk of injury, leasing sporting venues, disputes, grievances, discrimination, protecting children, ANZAC day, fundraising and events.

It's now live and available for use. It's easy to navigate. So please do take a look. Follow this link to the home page: <http://www.nfpcompliance.vic.gov.au/>

The page for sport and recreation organisations is under 'Your Not For Profit'.

Happy browsing!

PV SALUTES ITS WOMEN RANGERS AND FIELD OFFICERS

Parks Victoria, as part of the International Women's Day (March 8) celebrations, acknowledged the contribution that the women in Parks Victoria make in the management and care of Victoria's parks and waterways.

Across all regions of Parks Victoria, women are employed in a variety of roles, ranging from Rangers, Project Fire Fighters, Field Services, Project Management, Events, Finance, Administration and Visitor Services. Parks Victoria has always provided opportunities for women to challenge themselves and take on roles that were traditionally thought of as men's jobs, such as Park Rangers and Field Service Officers.

There are currently 109 women employed in various ranger and field service officer positions across Victoria, and about 22% of park rangers with Parks Victoria are women. It's a continuation of the long tradition in Victoria of women in park ranger roles; such as the legendary naturalist Mrs Karamoana Healey, who became the first woman caretaker of a national park in Victoria in 1952, the Tarra Bulga National Park in South Gippsland.

BUSHWALKING VICTORIA BOARD MEMBER & OFFICE HOLDER PROFILE

Sylvia McLean

What bushwalking club(s) do you belong to? Primarily Essendon BWC, but have been a long time member of the GDTA, VPNA, Gisborne BWC and more recently Melbourne Bushies and YHA. Also, I have been on many outings with other clubs, including Koonung, Boroondara and Maroondah (especially pack carries and base camps). A friend of mine once described me as the prostitute of bushwalkers—ie. ‘walk anywhere, at any time and with any one!’

I have made many, many acquaintances in bushwalking circles. It is always great to see people I know, especially when you run into them on the track in the middle of nowhere.

How long have you been a member?

Since 1989 with Essendon. Currently into my 23rd year there.

Do you or have you held a committee position in your club(s) Currently back on the committee as ordinary member after a break of a few years; prior to that a 2-year stint as secretary after a prolonged period as ordinary committee member. I also suggested and was involved in organising the 2005 Federation Day Event at Blackwood hosted by Essendon Bushwalking Club.

How long have you been bushwalking? Since childhood on family outings but, regrettably, that stopped with higher education and career building. My passion re-ignited into my thirties and this time even parenthood was no barrier to bushwalking. Breastfeeding, 3-wheeler prams and baby-carrier packs being the catalyst for continuous bushwalking. Mind you one has to be keen, dedicated and highly organised, but you can certainly make it happen and keep happening.

What got you started bushwalking? Enjoying the bush and all associated with it on family outings as a child. Then, later in life, walking the dog led to longer and longer walks until I thought that I needed and wanted to join a walking group. So I automatically sought out my most local bushwalking group and instantly felt at home. I’m not sure if it is the euphoria created by the endorphins during physical exercise but it just makes you feel good. There is a combination of mental, physical and emotional/social wellness associated with walking in the bush, especially with like-minded friends. The essentials and priorities in life change for ever when you bushwalk: health, mobility, safety, shelter, food and some knowledge; the basic needs in life become appreciably the essentials. There are times when it can be challenging but there are rewards. There are times when it gets tough but then there is an interdependence and trust that develops within the group that pulls everyone together so we all get to our goal safely.

How often do you manage to bushwalk? As often as possible! At least once or twice a week. I try to walk at least 5km a day.

What sort of bushwalking do you like best? Remote, overnight or extended pack carries. I really enjoy summer Alpine walking.

Do you have a favourite walk? All of them! The ones I remember as being not so good stand out due to really adverse weather conditions.

I recently led my first overnight walk (should have done this years ago) over the 3-day New Year long weekend over the Wellington Plains to Lake Tarni Karng, the Sentinels, Gable End and home via Mt. Wellington. That was really special, especially as everything just went so well.

Are you a member of a conservation or friends group? VNPA, local Landcare and greening groups and, of course, a strong advocate for Ray Thomas and the Regent Honey Eater Project held over four fortnightly weekends in August and September each year in the Lurg Hills north east of Benalla.

Do you participate in conservation activities? If so what, where and how often? Predominantly tree planting with the above groups, but weeding is also a big part of it. I always enjoy any information events which Landcare always seems to be so good at arranging eg. wildflower walks, bat or bird talks and slides. Of course these events are usually with experts in their field of knowledge. In the hills behind Riddells Creek where I live, new species of flowers are still being found by our local Landcare members. It is surprising how much you can note when you bushwalk.

What do you do when you are not bushwalking? If I’m not bushwalking then I am reading about it! I can stick my head in a bushwalking book or ponder over a map for hours. I really enjoy creating and improving walk routes. I enjoy navigation and undertake the odd Rogaine. Geocaching is starting to take up a lot of time in our household and can easily be combined with bushwalking. Other than that there doesn't seem to be much time for anything else apart from family life and, unfortunately, working. I am a midwife and getting out into the bush or even just going for a daily walk around home is great 'time out' from the hectic world we live in. I do enjoy and recommend Pilates, particularly if you regularly carry a heavy pack or suffer from any back or other ailments.

How long have you been on the BWV committee/been an office holder/been involved with BWV? I was on the Board as an ordinary member for three years from July 2007-2010. Since 2008 I have continued as the coordinator of the annual Federation Walk event.

What do you get from your contribution? One of the things I really enjoyed during the time I was a committee member was being actively involved in Bushwalking Victoria's 75th anniversary organising committee alongside Monica Chapman and Chris and Elaine Towers. This was when Chris set up the Where We Walk data for all our clubs, the photographic calendar competition commenced and the 2009 Federation event was to be hosted as a combined clubs event at Mt. Disappointment. When the Black Saturday Fires prevented that, a fantastic effort was held instead, as a record number of trees were planted in the Regent Honeyeater Project that Spring, in lieu of the Federation walk. Since I have been the Federation Walk event coordinator, I have encouraged and assisted Ballarat B&OC, Waverley, Peninsula/Catholic bushwalking clubs to host successful day and week end events at Beaufort, Anglesea and Rosebud. I am currently enjoying planning meetings with the Maroondah BWC who are capably organising this year's day event at Marysville.

I really enjoy meeting and working with like-minded people who appreciate and share my passion for the bush and everything associated with it. I guess that I just want to learn as much as possible and share my small amount of knowledge and ensure that others who are interested can gain as much pleasure as I do. There is a lot of satisfaction in giving and sharing, particularly about one's own passion.

THE NATURAL ENVIROMENT

Australia-wide wildlife corridor plan

Eight wildlife corridors have been identified for funding from the proposed Carbon Tax. Two of them are in Victoria—the Great Eastern Ranges initiative, listed as Continental in scale, covering Victoria, NSW, ACT, Queensland; and the Habitat 141° / 'Outback to Ocean' initiative, listed as Regional in scale, covering Victoria, South Australia. The targeted areas for the Great Eastern Ranges initiative are Slopes to Summit, Kosciusko to Coast, Southern Highlands Link, Hunter Valley and Border Ranges. The targeted area for Habitat 141 initiative stretches 700km along the 141st meridian of longitude.

The criteria for assessing areas for inclusion are: biodiversity value; threat, intact vegetation; connectivity; % preserved. 'Institutional capacity' was also a criterion. Visit the papers to see just what these criteria involve.

Unfortunately for many bushwalkers who contribute to the Regent Honeyeater Project in the Lurg Hills near Benalla, this area is not included. A search of the two major planning documents did not give any matches for Regent Honeyeater.

To view the Draft National Wildlife Corridors Plan, go to <http://www.environment.gov.au/biodiversity/wildlife-corridors/index.html>

The Advisory Group is seeking public comments before preparing a final plan for consideration by the Minister for Sustainability, Environment, Water, Population and Communities. Comments close on 20 April 2012. To make a submission go to <http://www.environment.gov.au/biodiversity/wildlife-corridors/consultation/index.html>

Regent Honeyeater Project—Lurg Hills near Benalla

It's that exciting time of year again. The Regent Honeyeater Project is not just about a single endangered bird or only endangered birds, it's also about endangered native mammals. So it's time to assess how the populations of Sugar Gliders, Squirrel Gliders and Phascogales are doing in the Lurg Hills near Benalla. The first nest box weekend was on 24-25 March, so as you are reading this it is probably too late to join in for that weekend, but there is a second weekend on 21-22 April.

What is involved? Over each weekend, we check nest boxes attached to trees to identify and count the types animal using them and to assess the condition of the boxes.

This data is collated and used to assess the endangered animals are faring and to make decisions about how their conservation should progress. Last year's count showed some nice growth in Squirrel Glider populations and promising signs that the local juvenile Squirrel Gliders are using the tree planting corridors to disperse when their parents kick them out of home.

The weekend offers a wonderful opportunity to get close to gliders. You are almost guaranteed to see one or two noses poking out of a bowl of leaves when you check the boxes, and everyone has an opportunity to have a look. We count for most of Saturday (after a brief talk by Ray Thomas, the coordinator, on safety and anything particular to look for) and on Sunday until just after lunch to allow time for the return trip to Melbourne.

All ages are welcome. The walks to the nest boxes are usually short (a few hundred metres between sites) and then back to the cars to drive to the next cluster. You need to climb a ladder to get up to the boxes, but not so very high, and if you are nervous about climbing ladders don't be because safety is always a primary concern and we are shown how to place and climb the ladders safely. And if you don't want to climb, you don't have to.

You will need to provide lunch, snacks and drinks for yourself for both days. On Saturday night there is a BBQ where you meet up with your fellow counters; bring your own goodies for a barbeque. (Benalla has good supermarkets to resupply from and a number of nice bakeries where most people go for Sunday breakfast.) Free accommodation on Saturday night is available in the local scout hall; only mattresses are provided, so bring your own sleeping bag. Otherwise you can stay at the caravan park or at a motel.

If you want to attend or want more information, contact Ray Thomas at ray@regenthoneyeater.org.au

BUSHWALKING RESOURCES

Great Dividing Trail—Goldfields Track walking guide is on its way

The Goldfields Track walking guide will be published in the next couple of months. It is designed to complement the GDTA's three existing maps for the Goldfields Track. The guide will have 1:25,000 scale maps of the whole of the 210km track between Mt Buninyong and Bendigo. Gib Wettenhall, the GDTA's publications officer, is writing and producing the guide, and he has now walked or ridden its whole length as part of the 'ground truthing' process. GDTA surveyor Bill Casey has GPSed the whole track. DSE's Customised Mapping Unit in Ballarat is producing standard VicMap style contour maps.

The maps with track notes and large numbers of photos will be sandwiched between essays by local experts on landscape features from geology to plants and animals, as well as essays on the goldfields' rich cultural heritage and some of the area's historical characters.

We'll keep you posted.

Melbourne's Best Bush, Bay and City Walks—book review

This new walking guide is primarily for the non-bushwalker. It covers lots of interesting urban walks in the Melbourne city and suburbs and along Port Phillip Bay, and a few more 'bushy' walks including Kokoda Memorial Track at Ferntree Gully and the Hamer Arboretum on Melbourne's outskirts or a little further afield in the You Yangs and Long Forest. Most of the walks described are short—the longest is the 10.7km Williamstown maritime history walk. The given walk times are generous—geared to the pace of non-bushwalkers and sightseers. But 'distance' walkers can of course combine different walks and walk faster to make a walk more 'challenging'.

The production qualities of the book are excellent: comfortable size for carrying in your bag or holding in the hand; good paper; colour-coded by area for easy reference; clear walk summaries; clear maps; clear walk descriptions; lovely and enticing images; interesting snippets of additional information about history or points of interest.

Nearly all Melbourne-based bushwalking clubs do urban and local park walks as part of their Easy grade walking program. This book is an excellent resource for planning such walks. And for planning activities during the hot summer months when some of us prefer to do easier or shorter walkers or walks with more opportunities for refreshments stops and respite from the heat. It is also an excellent resource for clubs that offer walks as part of local community participation programs.

It is an valuable book for encouraging non-walkers to get out there and walk without fear of being outside their comfort zone, and to do walks of interest to family and friends. It should also tempt bushwalkers to explore urban Melbourne and Port Philip Bay. If you have interstate or overseas visitors, you will find in it lots of walks that show off Melbourne.

This is the first of Julie's walking books. She plans to supplement it with three other titles: Best Walks of Geelong, The Bellarine and the Surf Coast, Best Walks of the Great Ocean Road & The Otways and Best Walks of Ballarat and The Goldfields, which are due out later this year. That is something to look forward to.
